

March 8th, 2008

With the first ever FIDI Conference in India, Santa Fe Relocation Services took the opportunity to host the 'Night of the Divas' on Saturday, March 8th. This private event was held on the lawns of the Uppal Orchid Hotel (an Ecotel Hotel), for both our partners who had shown up 1 day prior to the start of the FIDI Conference, along with some of our corporate customers. The Uppal Orchid is Delhi's first certified environmentally sensitive hotel which, as an ISO14001 certified company, Santa Fe considers a like-minded organization.

Over 300 attendees joined the celebration and were greeted at the entrance by a traditional Indian welcome, with the management team from our Santa Fe India offices in Delhi, Bangalore, Mumbai, Hyderabad, Chennai and Pune all in attendance as well. There was also a Hookah Lounge at the venue which added class to the event. To start the evening's activities, in traditional Indian style, guests were welcomed by our CEO, Lars Iversen, and then treated to a performance prior to relaxing to an Indian feast put on by the World Class Chef's at the Uppal Orchid.

The Night of the Divas took us into the history of Bollywood and gave us a chance to experience performances by some of the leading ladies of Indian cinema. One of the top dance troupes in India were flown in from Mumbai to perform at the event. The Master of Ceremonies, Shweta, explained the cultural nuances attached to each of the stars featured, and how they impacted Bollywood and the Indian culture. Following the dance performance, guests were entertained by a DJ who played a mixture of local and international dance tunes and there was little room on the dance floor for the remainder of the evening...
