WHAT IS TẾT?

What is Tết?

- Tết Nguyên Đán, or “Festival of the First Day of the Year”, is Vietnam’s most important celebration, symbolizing family reunions, setting aside past troubles, and hoping for a better year ahead.
- The 2026 TET in Vietnam is the Year of the Horse (Bính Ngọ) and is from Tuesday 17th February to Friday 20th February; covering Tết Lunar New Year’s Eve (17 Feb), First (18 Feb), Second (19 Feb), and Third (20 Feb) of Tết Nguyên Đán. Vietnamese traditionally celebrate Tết from the 15th day of the 12th lunar month to the 15th day of the 1st lunar month. And, even today, business slows down two weeks before and two weeks after TET.

- According to the Vietnamese zodiac, Lunar New Year 2026 is the Year of the Fire Horse (Bính Ngọ). The Horse is a symbol of energy, independence, confidence, and progress.
- Representing movement and vitality, the Horse year brings opportunities for action, innovation, and bold personal growth.

The Preparations (1-2 Weeks Before Tết)

“Tống Cựu Nghinh Tân”

Bidding farewell to the old welcoming the new

Spiritual & Relational Housecleaning

Resolve Conflicts & Clear Debts

The most important preparation. Families strive to settle all personal disputes (with family, friends, colleagues) and pay off monetary debts before the year ends.

Visit Ancestral Graves (Tảo Mộ)

The family visits the graves of ancestors to clean, decorate with flowers, and invite their spirits home for the Tết celebration. This shows respect and ensures ancestral protection.

The Preparations (1-2 Weeks Before Tết)

Physical Housecleaning & Decoration

Thorough Cleaning (Dọn Dẹp Nhà Cửa)

Every corner of the house is cleaned—from ceilings to floors, behind furniture, and in drawers. Dust and clutter symbolize stagnant, old energy. The cleaning is usually completed before New Year’s Eve, as sweeping or taking out trash during Tết is believed to sweep away new luck.

Home Repairs

Fix leaky faucets, cracked tiles, or broken doors. This prevents “leaking” wealth and allows energy to flow smoothly.

Decoration with Symbolic Colors

Hoa Đào
(Peach Blossom - North)

Hoa Mai
(Yellow Apricot Blossoms - South)

Cây Quất
(Kumquat Tree)

Red and Gold Accents
(Red Lantern, Couplets, Five-fruit tray)

Ritual Shopping & Preparation

New Clothes (Áo Mới)

Every family member, especially children, gets at least one set of brand new clothes, preferably in lucky colors (red, yellow, new prints for 2026). Wearing new clothes on the first day symbolizes a fresh start.

Kitchen God Ceremony (Ông Táo)

On the 23rd day of the last lunar month, families give a send-off for the Kitchen Gods (three gods) who report to the Jade Emperor about the household's year. They offer a ceremony with carp fish (his vehicle to heaven), votive papers, and sweets.

Stocking the Pantry

The kitchen should be fully stocked for the first 3 days of Tết, as there's a belief that one should not shop or cook extensively during this time to preserve luck. Essential items include:

Bánh Chưng, Giò,
Thịt Kho
for Tết dishes

Seeds, sweets, and
candied fruits (mứt)
for guests

Fresh fruit
for offerings

The Preparations (1-2 Weeks Before Tết)

Final Ritual Offerings & Family Time

Setting Up the Ancestral Altar

This is the sacred center of the home. It is cleaned meticulously and decorated with:

Mâm Ngũ Quả
(Five-Fruit Tray)

Bánh Chưng/Bánh Tét,
Giò, Xôi, Gà Luộc

Incense, Flowers, and Betel Leaves

Cúng Giao Thừa (New Year's Eve Offering)

At the exact moment the old year turns into the new (midnight), families perform two offerings:

Outdoors

To welcome the new governing deity of the year

Indoors at the Altar

To invite ancestors to celebrate Tết with the family

Cúng Giao Thừa (New Year's Eve Offering)

Held on New Year's Eve. This is the most important meal of the year, where all family members must strive to be present. It signifies gratitude for the past year and unity for the year to come.

In the Vietnamese language, to celebrate Tết is to ăn Tết, literally meaning “eat Tết”, showing the importance of food in the celebration. Some of the dishes can be enjoyed all year-round, while other dishes are only served during Tết.

The Essential Ritual & Offering Dishes

Bánh Chưng / Bánh Tét
(Sticky Rice Cakes)

Sliced into portions, often pan-fried for crispiness, and eaten with pickled onions (củ kiệu) or Vietnamese sausage.

Giò/Chả Lụa (Vietnamese Steamed Pork Sausage)

Sliced and arranged neatly on a plate. Essential for the altar and as a key component of other dishes.

Xôi (Sticky Rice)

Sticky rice symbolizes family closeness and prosperity. The grains sticking together represent family members staying connected.

Gà Luộc (Boiled Whole Chicken)

Boiled whole, head and feet intact, presented upright on the altar as a noble offering. Eaten with salt, pepper, and lime dip (muối tiêu chanh).

Dishes for Abundance & Prosperity

Thịt Kho Tàu / Thịt Kho Nước Dừa (Braised Pork & Eggs in Coconut Water)

Traditionally cooked in a large pot to last several days, so the mother (who does most Tết cooking) can rest. Represents endurance and foresight.

Canh Khổ Qua Nhồi Thịt (Bitter Melon Soup with Pork)

Eating bitterness now for a sweet year ahead. The bitter melon (khổ qua) symbolizes the hardships of the old year being swallowed, making way for sweetness. The stuffed filling represents abundance within.

Chả Giò / Nem Rán (Vietnamese Fried Spring Rolls)

Crispy rolls wrapped in lettuce and herbs with dipping sauce (nước mắm pha). A crowd-pleasing appetizer.

Dưa Hành / Củ Kiệu
(Pickled Spring Onions & Leeks)

Mứt Tết
(Candied Fruits & Seeds)

Hạt Dưa
(Red Roasted Watermelon Seeds)

Dishes for Luck, Longevity & Purity

Cơm Tấm (Broken Rice) A Modern Favorite

While not traditional, it's now a popular comfort food served during Tết, especially in the South. It symbolizes making the most of what you have (broken rice grains were once considered less valuable) and turning it into something delicious—a metaphor for resilience and ingenuity.

Fruits for the Five-Fruit Tray (Mâm Ngũ Quả)

- This centerpiece altar offering represents the hope for a fruitful, abundant year. The “five” represents the five elements and the five blessings: prosperity, longevity, health, peace, and safe passage.
- South: Prefers puns. Mãng Cầu (soursop) = prayer/wish; Sung (fig) = abundance; Dừa (coconut) = matching sound for “vừa” (enough); Đu Đủ (papaya) = “đủ” (sufficient); Xoài (mango) = “xài” (spending).
- North: Focuses on color and elegance: Buddha’s hand (phật thủ), bananas (chuối), pomelo (bưởi), peaches (đào), kumquats (quất).

Share Your Lì Xì

- Lì xì (lucky money) is given by elders or superiors to younger people, such as parents to children, adults to friends' children, teachers to students, and managers to employees.
- Lì xì is given in small red envelopes and is usually exchanged during the first days of the New Year, with new banknotes traditionally preferred as they are believed to bring good luck.
  - Suggested amounts:
    - + Full-time staff: VND 200,000–500,000
    - + Other staff (e.g., trash collectors, security): VND 50,000–200,000.
    - + Children: VND 20,000–100,000.

Bonus Time

- If you have household helpers such as drivers or gardeners, it is customary to pay their salaries together with Lì Xì or a bonus before Tết. The bonus usually depends on their length of service and your satisfaction with their work. Employees who have worked for over a year typically receive at least one month's salary, which may increase to two or three months. Those with less than a year of service may receive a prorated bonus based on their working time.
- Before Tết begins, employers give their staff their salary and bonus in red envelopes and wish them a happy Tết with their families. If bonuses have already been paid at the end of the calendar or fiscal year, a smaller Lì Xì amount is usually given for good luck.

Common Wishes for Tết

Dos and Please Don'ts and a Few Words of Caution

DO

- Xông Đất (First Footing): The first visitor after midnight is believed to set the tone for the year, so families choose someone lucky and successful.
- Chúc Tết (New Year's Greeting): Children greet elders with New Year wishes and receive Lì Xì, while elders give blessings and advice.
- Visiting Family and Friends: The first days are spent visiting family, friends, teachers, and business relations to strengthen bonds.
- Temple Visits: Families visit temples to pray for health, peace, and good luck, and to gather luck (đi hái lộc).

DON'T

- Sweeping or taking out the trash on the first day, as it may sweep away luck and wealth.
- Using bad language, arguing, crying, or scolding children, since harmony is important.
- Breaking items such as plates or mirrors, which symbolize bad luck.
- Visiting or being the first guest if one has recently experienced loss or misfortune.
- Asking for debt repayment or lending money on the first day.

What to give for Tết?

Giving gifts in Vietnam during the Tết holiday should focus on the Vietnamese symbols of good luck. Here are among the most popular gifts given:

Hoa Mai & Hoa Đào

Live, blooming flowers symbolize the rebirth of spring, while fruit blossoms represent the start of a new crop cycle. Both are popular purchases during Tết.

In southern Vietnam, Hoa Mai with its vibrant yellow blooms is highly favored. In the North, Hoa Đào thrives, as it grows well in dry and cold weather.

Kumquat Tree

Wine & Gift Baskets

Greeting Cards

Red Items

Red symbolizes good luck, prosperity, joyfulness and contentment. Whichever gifts you plan to give, place a priority on the red and yellow (gold) and avoid dark colors.

What NOT to give for Tết?

Several gifts are considered taboo, including watches, clocks (associated with death); knives, scissors, forks (cutting good luck) anything black (ink, coffee), anything related to fire (lighter) and handkerchiefs (as it symbolizes tears and sweat in the New Year).
